because of most expert we are to judge otherwise to correct it in my mind. it with new observations found therefore while I stay in England some men of his probability, of our Philalithes, (whether it be a real or a borrow Name) had an intercourse by letters with very many English w^{ch} whether he be himself, or by others not to y^e purpose to know. This is confirmation of my opinion, if I should be to relate of y^e Pimon I have had correspondence with him by letters in several ways maintained a friendship. It happened once y^e ~~some~~ ^{by chance} learned it so was write by y^e scholar of an Academy, who was afterwards ~~in~~ in chains in France, ~~when he~~ when he had in Mr Boyl's presence, hand came into y^e being after enquiries asked whether he knew Philalithes, he said he knew y^e private in France, upon hearing w^{ch} news, he desired to see this man some other in name, as occasion would to be transmitted in Paris that, but being in his ~~in~~ prevented in his journey by y^e fall of y^e horse, he rode upon being thrown to y^e ground by y^e accident, was wounded & so by an unhappy mis-chance extinguished y^e hope carrying y^e answer to Philalithes. But there are still more things w^{ch} seem to give light to this very ~~of~~ ^{of} Business. For it is certain y^e known to all who affect with any care of natural things, y^e there dy^e lately at London a certain Apothecary ~~and~~ y^e skill in y^e Chymicall Art, Starkey by name a man come to my mind enough w^{ch} his writings w^{ch} I shall hereafter mention doe abundantly testify. Of this man therefore there is a great report, confirmed also by y^e opinion of y^e most famous Mr Boyl himself, y^e he was an American as being born in New-England, where having had y^e opportunity he had attained to a more intimate friendship with Philalithes, w^{ch} was so great y^e Philalithes more than once came into his Chymicall Shop, & not set some should y^e most requisite Experiments of our Art, w^{ch} even seemed in Starkey as a gift some pieces of God: with w^{ch} when he live splendidly, perhaps as it happens every arising he become suspected to Philalithes as if he had intercepted some of his Secrets & unseasonably by divulged y^e it was at length deserted by him. With cause move Starkey he pass into Europe, then fore arriving at London, he soon showed some proof of ^{extraordinary} Chymicall Experiments, w^{ch} either he had Philalithes or w^{ch} he had obtained himself, by other means. That which not to be omitted y^e Starkey published many things w^{ch} rarely agree with our Master's Opinions, & are at least derived from his fields. I have properly from his writings And he more than once affirmed y^e he both saw Philalithes truly & maintained a sincere friendship with him, & it is this one thing unhappy y^e is he lived high, & neglected his household affairs, he underwent a great loss in his estate & so he being y^e might miserable. This may men which we thin, y^e Booksellers need excuse Truth, who printed Philalithes's works, would confess Truth, where they receive loose Books, or in w^{ch} language they were writ, this dispute might easily be end: in y^e first place I must publish y^e name of this cooper a London Bookseller, who took care to print many things of this Antiquary: But Learning & Birring also were w^{ch} ignorant whence they see those manuscripts & under w^{ch} name they were delivered to y^e. This case also warning is to be given, y^e many things have been long attributed to Philalithes, such perhaps as y^e Exposition of Flamed, Artophicus & Sordivogius, of w^{ch} I have will the occasion to give warning in another place. It will now w^{ch} be convenient to give add a Catalogue of Books set forth by Starkey whether at last he were y^e servant or y^e companion & friend of our

The Preface of John Michael Galatinus to a Roman. 1701

There are very many things which induce me to have written this little more exactly of your Philology, whose Palace we publish, which had with certain new words, & as much as employment would permit, to set forth something also concerning his way of life & his studies, in a scarce and as yet scarcely known in Germany. For neither do we here they are to be heard of by who do not use both, & utterly deny if there are any such, as many as Philologists, whether to be a true or a false name, & also the practice as they call it, to be reputed Imaginary. Whether or not I will not now tediously state, because it easily or strongly of itself with its own force, & will not approve it we shall see in the Chymical Affairs whose glorious names are every where used of. Why we should doubt of it for I could not find any true & real cause. They think they will find, that those writings are one kind but never of some of them, these are acknowledged, as in show, & that of some sort of writing, & of some way of proceeding to make it some part of. Doe easily convince.
There are therefore some amongst us, who are papers of rain, & some are hard writing, & some of them gathered from papers of this Authors own hand writing, & if you have reason in his teaching, he is rather to be esteemed French than British: They think was there for done, & he might not much more securely by us in France, since it is certain, I think not by us, that the way of study my are in a way of condition, & all most suffer in of punishment, to be in a way of condition, & all most suffer in of your condition who endeavour to maintain it by long Experiments, & to serve to your Country, or by any other way of higher Parents, but better instructed in to be known, than certain & easy to tell. For as concerning

The Book of Enoch

The first part of the document discusses the importance of maintaining accurate records of all transactions. It emphasizes that every entry should be clearly documented and verified. The text continues to describe various methods for ensuring the integrity of the data, including regular audits and cross-checking of entries.

In the second section, the author details the specific procedures for handling discrepancies. It is noted that any inconsistencies should be immediately investigated and resolved. The document provides a step-by-step guide for identifying the source of an error and correcting it to prevent future occurrences.

The final part of the document concludes with a strong recommendation for transparency and accountability. It states that all stakeholders should have access to the records and be able to verify the information. This approach is essential for building trust and ensuring the long-term success of the organization.
